Table of Contents

Introduction

Some Words before All Else .................................................. 9
Nikolas Schall

Aux prises avec la diversité depuis 1867 : thèmes et enjeux .................. 13
Pierre Lavoie

Part I
Making Canada since 1867: State-Building, National Identities and the Canadianization of the Global Issues

Celebrating First of July: Political Identity Construction and Multi-Cultural Memories in a Postnational State .............................................. 19
Ursula Lehmkuhl

Montréal 375: Who Speaks When We Speak ...................................... 37
Elisabeth Tutschek

From Local to Global: Changing Spaces in Canadian Literary and Critical Discourse ................................................................. 57
Wolfgang Klooss

Part II
Unsettling Canada: Turtle Island's Indigenous Peoples and the Canadian Narrative

Reconstructing Métis Territoriality and Identity in the Life of Norbert Welsh, 1840s to 1880s ................................................................. 91
Lisa Schaub

Canada 150 and (some) Indigenous People's Voices ............................. 113
Marie-Eve Beaulieu
Gillian Lane-Mercier

Irreconcilable ‘Myths of Métissage’: Indigeneity and Settler Colonialism in Québec ................................. 159
Sarah Henzi

Part III
Grappling with Diversity: Mediating Religious, Cultural, Ethnic and Racial Difference

Diversity in Canada’s Citizenship Regime: Resetting Borders and Boundaries  . 181
Jane Jenson

Free Speech and the Protection of Human Dignity in Canada, Germany, and the United States: The Moral Legitimation of Competing Discourses  ............. 203
Paul Carls

On Charles Taylor’s “Deep Diversity”  ........................................... 221
Charles Blattberg

Conclusion

Canada 150: Celebrating Ambiguity  ........................................ 239
Laurence McFalls

List of Contributors  ................................................................. 249