

Table of Contents

Introduction 7
Charlotte Kaiser, Ouennassa Khiari and Viktoria Sophie Lühr

Section I: (Dis)Continuing: Diversity in Politics

PODCAST “Historische Ereignisse, Zeitenwenden und Vielfalt der Temporalitäten”

Viktoria Sophie Lühr & Laurence McFalls in conversation with Frank Bösch

De la promotion de la diversité aux mobilisations contre les injustices dans la France du XXI^e siècle : expressions contemporaines d’un héritage républicain ambivalent 19
Réjane Sénac

Sind Juden fähig, gute Bürger zu werden? Zeitlichkeit als Problem des deutschsprachigen Emanzipationsdiskurses im späten 18. und im frühen 19. Jahrhundert am Beispiel von Christoph Grund (1772–1829) 37
Michelle Stoffel

White Supremacism on YouTube: How to Rewrite History from a Racist Point of View 65
Tristan Boursier

The Simultaneity of Non-simultaneous Sovereignty Conceptions and Rapid Norm Change at the United Nations General Assembly Debates on R2P 89
Annika Enning

Section II: Practices of Belonging Through Time and Space

PODCAST

“Transition Time on TV:

Transing Genre in Transparent (2014–2019)”

Charlotte Kaiser in conversation with Elahe Haschemi Yekani

In Search of Lost Time: Jamaican Migrant Women’s Memories of Home 115
Lisa Johnson

« Our time is not like men's time » : Temporalités genrées chez les femmes juives hassidiques de Montréal 131
Valentina Gaddi

Temporality in Everyday Transcultural Transgender Identity Narratives 157 matthew heinz

Section III:
Media and Diversity:
Creating Knowledge in Time

PODCAST “Crip Times: Disability, Globalization, and Resistance”
Giti Hatef-Rossa in conversation with Robert McRuer

Time, Knowledge, and the Image of the Other: Visualizing Difference and Temporalities in White Slaves of Maquinna (2000) 183
Tom Schira

Sur un « poète intermittent » : temps d'arrêt et lyrisme dans l'écriture testimoniale de Primo Levi 203
Guido Furci

Industrial Film as Multilayered Mediator of Diverse Temporalities 223
Isis Luxenburger

List of Contributors 251