

Contents

1	A political-ideational approach to RE	11
1.1	Introduction	11
1.2	Historical background and former research	14
1.3	The structure of the book	27
2	Idea analysis of political speech	29
2.1	Idea analysis as method for analysing policy texts	29
2.2	Proceedings from parliamentary debates as material	38
3	Approaching RE, religious and national identity and the purpose of Norwegian education	41
3.1	Religion education	41
3.2	The relationship between religious and national identity	52
3.2.1	Why discuss religious and national identity together with ideas about RE?	56
3.2.2	Taylor on configurations of religious and national identities	58
3.3	The purpose of Norwegian education	64
3.3.1	The OECD and global education policy in Norway	65
3.3.2	Ideas about the purpose of Norwegian education in tension – between objects clauses and the OECD	69
3.4	Overview of the analytical tools	72
4	Ideas about RE, religious and national identity, and the purpose of Norwegian education in 1995	74
4.1	Key ideas in the debate	78
4.1.1	Problem definitions	78
4.1.2	Policy solutions	80
4.1.3	Meta-ideas	82
4.1.4	Summary of the key ideas in the debate	86
4.2	Religion education	87
4.2.1	Independent MP Christiansen and the Socialist Left Party	88
4.2.2	The non-socialist parties	92
4.2.3	The Labour Party	102
4.2.4	Summary of ideas about the RE in the 1995 debate	112
4.3	The relationship between religious and national identity	113
4.3.1	Independent MP Christiansen and the Socialist Left Party	114
4.3.2	The non-socialist parties	122
4.3.3	The Labour Party	129
4.3.4	Summary of ideas about the relationship between religious and national identity in the 1995 debate	134

4.4	The purpose of Norwegian education	135
4.4.1	Independent MP Christiansen and the Socialist Left Party	135
4.4.2	The non-socialist parties	137
4.4.3	The Labour Party	139
4.4.4	Summary of ideas about the purpose of Norwegian education in the 1995 debate	140
5	Ideas about RE, religious and national identity, and the purpose of Norwegian education in 2008	141
5.1	Key ideas in the debate	143
5.1.1	Policy solutions	144
5.1.2	Problem definitions	147
5.1.3	Meta-ideas	154
5.1.4	Summary of the key ideas in the 2008 debate	157
5.2	Religion education	158
5.2.1	The government parties	158
5.2.2	The opposition parties	163
5.2.3	Summary of ideas about RE in the 2008 debate	173
5.3	The relationship between religious and national identity	174
5.3.1	The governing parties	175
5.3.2	The opposition parties	181
5.3.3	Summary of ideas about the relationship between religious and national identity in the 2008 debate	186
5.4	The purpose of Norwegian education	187
5.4.1	The governing parties	187
5.4.2	The opposition parties	191
5.4.3	Summary of ideas about the purpose of Norwegian education in the 2008 debate	194
6	Comparing ideas about RE, religious and national identity, and the purpose of Norwegian education	195
6.1	Religion education	195
6.1.1	Ideas in the 1995 debate	196
6.1.2	Ideas in the 2008 debate	199
6.1.3	Ideas about RE in the debates	203
6.2	The relationship between religious and national identity	206
6.2.1	Ideas in the 1995 debate	206
6.2.2	Ideas in the 2008 debate	209
6.2.3	Ideas about the relationship between religious and national identity in the debates	212
6.3	The purpose of Norwegian education	215
6.3.1	Ideas in the 1995 debate	215

6.3.2	Ideas in the 2008 debate	217
6.3.3	Ideas about the purpose of Norwegian education in the debates	218
7	Developments and relationships in ideas about RE, religious and national identity, and the purpose of Norwegian education ..	220
7.1	Developments in political ideas about RE	220
7.2	Combinations of ideas about RE, religious and national identity, and the purpose of Norwegian education	222
7.2.1	1995: Independent MP Christiansen and the Socialist Left Party	222
7.2.2	1995: The non-socialist parties	224
7.2.3	1995: The Labour Party	226
7.2.4	2008: The governing parties	228
7.2.5	2008: The opposition parties	229
7.3	Relationships among ideas about RE, religious and national identity, and the purpose of Norwegian education	231
7.3.1	Ideas about RE and the relationship between religious and national identity	232
7.3.2	Ideas about RE and the purpose of Norwegian education	236
7.4	Former claims and the findings in this book	239
	Abbreviations	245
	List of tables	247
	References	248
	Appendix I: Overview of the politicians in the debates	258
	Appendix II: The objects clauses from 1969 and 2009	262