

Contents

1.	General introduction.....	9
2.	What is dance?.....	12
3.	Dance and science.....	18
3.1	Ethnology.....	18
3.2	The psychological approach	21
3.3	Historical perspectives	22
3.4	Semiotic, linguistic and phenomenological approaches.....	23
3.5	African dance as a subject of musicology and ethnology.....	24
4.	The Ewe	28
5.	The Ewe language.....	29
6.	Religion in Ewe Society.....	30
7.	Preconsiderations in Communication Theory	37
8.	Comparison of verbal and non-verbal forms of communication	40
8.1	The visual channel.....	41
8.2	Confining and containing the object of investigation.....	44
9.	Description of a dance-event from a dance-inherent point of view	46
10.	Transcription and notation	48
11.	Evaluation of the data.....	56
11.1	Explanation of material.....	58
11.2	Evaluation of 'motion data'	60
11.3	Basic movement	62
11.4	Bodily and spatial orientation	63
11.5	Orientation of observers.....	64
11.6	Establishing the space.....	69
11.7	Classification of bodily movements.....	71
11.8	Corporal segmentation, notation and description thereof.....	72

12. Describing the various positions.....	74
13. Discussion of dance data	104
14. From gesture to text.....	106
Glossary of terminology.....	119
Bibliography	162